"BLUE DEVILS" BOMBARDED WITH HUB GIRLS' KISSES

Roses were also showered on the French veterans in their triumphal procession today to Faneuil Hall, where they were welcomed by the Mayor. The picture illustrates an International "Blue Devil" romance. The young woman is Miss Alice Eldridge of New York, who is engaged to marry Adjutant Rene Thibeau. They were snapped on the steps at the Hotel Westminster.

Boston women and girls gave the "Blue Devils" a royal reception today.

Roses were showered upon them. Kisses were thrown at them.

It's a wonder the kisses were not planted right on their faces, so enthusiastic was the feminine throng in the Back Bay and shopping districts.

Candy—in boxes, in bags and in hands-full—was tossed into their laps or into the automobiles in which the French war heroes rode.

AMERICANS WIN SHARP BATTLE IN THE AIR

Rout a Superior Force of German Fliers Encountered in Toul Sector

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, June 14.—American airmen more than broke even in fighting under heavy odds this morning over the front north of Toul, the biggest sky battle in which American aviators have yet engaged.

Between twelve and fifteen German albatrosses attacked two of our photographing planes three miles above Norry, north of Font-a-Mouson.

Three of our fighting machines aped to the assistance of the attacked Americans with the sun to their backs and dove in amidst the German planes.

Each of the American airmen picked out an adversary, forcing the enemy planes down to an altitude of two miles. At that height Lieutenant (name deleted by censor) poured several rounds into his opponent, the German machine falling in flames. The Germans attacked one of our machines, three albatrosses encircling it. The American machine was seen to spin earthwards. It is believed that the Americans were made prisoners.

Another of our planes got on the tail of a Boche, firing steadily. The Boche machine, apparently crippled, dived earthward. The remainder of the German airmen then fled. Our aviators returned to their base.

In another engagement fought earlier in the day three of our aviators shot down a German machine over Thiacourt after a long chase.

This afternoon the Germans dropped bombs behind our lines on the Toul front, but no damage was done.

Today's War Summary

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor

A comparative lull, with the exception of violent bombardments, had settled down today upon the four great battlefields on the western front.

In the Montdidier-Oise zone of combat there were a few local operations, during which the French advanced slightly on the centre.

The battle-weary Germans were unable to renew their heavy infantry thrusts at any point, although they delivered a few minor attacks.

The chief feature of the situation was the furious shelling which developed along the entire southern half of the Aisne-Marne front. All the way from Villers-Cotterets along the twenty-mile front to Chateau Thierry the big German guns were flaming last night, but the allied artillery was thundering in reply.

This shelling undoubtedly covered positions held by the Americans northwest of Chateau Thierry, where the line lies astride of the Chateau-Theirry-Cotterets railway. It had previously been reported that the Germans were bombarding the American positions with drum fire and that th American cannon were replying.

Another big gun duel developed on the Picardy plains, from a point opposite Amiens to the Scarpe valley, in front of Arras.

Whether these cannonades are the prelude to infantry attacks is not certain, but if they are it would mean that the Germans have come to regard their drive for Compiegne (on the Montdidier-Oise front) as a failure.

The allies are confidently awaiting the fifth German blow, no matter where it may fall. General Foch has placed his reserves and the allied lines have been strengthened everywhere.

The German high command with a lavish hand has thrown countless numbers of men into the maw of battle with no decisive result.

LEOMINSTER POLICE START WAR ON IDLERS

HUN PRISONERS TELL OF HEAVY LOSSES

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army at the Marne, June 14.—German prisoners taken in the recent fighting in this sector admit that German losses due to the American artillery fire have been frightful.

Among the captives is a former schoolmaster, who speaks four languages. He said he commanded a company, though he was only the "top" sergeant. This, in the opinion of American officers, shows scarcity of German officers in this sector.

A makeshift organization of some of the troops on this front also is disclosed.

The schoolmaster said his company was part of the units that had to make the forced march to the Marne, where, he said, they were told they would be confronted only by negroes —English and French colonials—but no Americans.

TOLD NOT TO GIVE UP.

After the first clash with Americans German officers went among the German machine gun "nests" exhorting the men to die rather than be captured.

The men were anxious to surrender, however, seemingly confident that the Americans would treat them humanely. Many of the prisoners said it was the happiest moment for them in four years when they were captured, principally because they were to be in American custody. They were jubilant when they heard they would be allowed to write their relatives under certain censorship restrictions.

A boy of eighteen said German military draft officers came to his home when he was seventeen and showed false papers making him eighteen. His parents objected, whereupon both were shot. The authorities then took the boy and his two brothers. The youth expressed the wish never to return to Germany.

YANKEES PROVE WORTH.

"The American units at the Marne," said an officer of high rank to me today, "got the Germans opposite them groggy, they slashed them so hard and fast. They had them completely buffaloed by their new method of attack. I reckon there'll be more respect in Berlin hereafter for the fighting qualities of the Yankees."

Deep military significance is attached to the fact that 400 odd German captured formed a special unit recruited from the remnants of a battalion that was almost annihilated last week when our troops helped stop the German rush toward Paris.

While the German prisoners are being examined, State Senator Salvatore A. Cutill of New York dropped in to get a glimpse of the Marne front. He is en route to Italy on a propaganda mission. He brought the latest news from New York, and big town has to "douse its glims" by nights.

ASK GOVERNMENT AID TO HOUSE OHIO WORKERS

Cleveland, O., June 14.—With the housing situation daily becoming more of a problem as the city's war industries continue to bring more workers to the city, the Cleveland War Board and members of the Housing Committee of the Chamber of Commerce are planning to ask the government to set aside $1,000,000 with which to build homes to be rented to employes of local factories. It is said that more than 10,000 homes are needed here at once.

MUST REGISTER IN CANADA OR BE OUTCAST

All Over Sixteen Years of Age, Male or Female, Included in New Law

By International News Service.

New York, June 14.—All Canada will be registered June 22 in the most universal and all-embracing registration yet instituted in any allied country. In detailing announcement of the registration the St. John Telegraph emphasizes the heavy penalties provided for failure to register, for refusal to answer questions on the list and for aiding registrants to evade the act's provisions.

Any Canadian, male or female, who is more than sixteen years old and who fails to register on the day set—June 22—will be an outcast thereafter, says the Canadian paper, and it may therefore be well to impress upon everybody the necessity for complying promptly and in detail with the requirements of the law.

FORFEIT RIGHT TO VOTE.

Provision is made for a later registration for those who, because of illness, accident or other causes beyond their control, are prevented from registering on the day set, but these exceptions are carefully guarded, and the penalty for deception is heavy.

Those who, without lawful excuse, omit to register, will be liable to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for a month, and to a further penalty of $10 for each day after the day they should have registered.

But that is not all. Such persons, so long as they are unregistered, forfeit the right to vote at any Dominion election, and likewise the right to obtain or to continue in any employment or to receive any salary or wages.

BARRED FROM HOTELS.

Unregistered Canadians also forfeit the right to employ others, or to buy railway, steamboat or street car tickets, or to travel by any such means or to receive board or lodging at any hotel, club, restaurant or boarding house.

Anybody who employs or continues in his employ any unregistered person or pays him any salary or wages while he is unregistered, is liable to a fine such as would be incurred by the person who fails to register.

A fine of $100 may be imposed upon any employe of any railway, steamship company or other public carrier who sells, gives or delivers any transportation ticket to an unregistered person.

Similarly any landlord, proprietor or employe of a hotel, restaurant or boarding house may be fined $100 for boarding or lodging one who has failed to register.

CHANGE IN DRAFT TO GET BRITISH IN U. S:

Neutrals to Be Better Protected After Confirmation of Treaty

By International News Service.

Washington, June 14.—Legislation amending the draft law to carry out certain of the provisions of the proposed draft treaty with Great Britain will be taken by Congress immediately after the treaty is confirmed.

Two distinctly important amendments are immediately necessary, officials have pointed out. First, the provost marshal-general must be empowered to draft British subjects here who come within the British draft age—18 to 45. Then neutral subjects must be more definitely protected.

Senators familiar with the facts say that serious complications are threatened because the War Department by registrants subject to draft from called into service neutrals who failed the local selection boards to waive their rights.

The department rules that unless a neutral claims exemption when first called he cannot present such a claim afterward.

There is one case, senators said, where a Swedish subject was drafted and held in the service, although he later filed a waiver. Since then he has been killed in action. The new amendment specifically will exempt all neutrals automatically.

The draft treaty remains in the hands of a sub-committee of the Senate foreign relations committee. It is expected that an early favorable report will be made on it. Many senators hold that the treaty as drafted and signed on behalf of the United States and the British government places the United States under a moral obligation to change the American draft age to conform to the British. Senator Hitchcock, chairman of the committee, denies that this is so and will oppose any legislation along this line.

The question of a change in the the draft age will go over until the session beginning in December, anyhow.

LYNN ATTORNEY TO HEAR DRAFT APPEALS

John M. Harney, attorney of Lynn, has been appointed assistant government appeal agent for the Lynn district by Governor McCall. Mr. Harney will act for the Provost Marshal's office, and will consider appeals filed because the War Department by registrants subject to draft from called into service neutrals who failed the local selection boards.

HAILED AS LIBERTY'S SYMBOL

Patriotic Parades and Exercises Throughout Boston and New England

"One Flag, one land, one heart, one hand;
One Nation evermore."
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Flag Day dawned over Boston and New England today with a new and more patriotic meaning on account of the war in which our Flag now plays so valiant a part.

Today is the one hundred and forty-first birthday anniversary of the Stars and Stripes.

Boston and New England's gift in observance of this anniversary is a manifold expression of renewed and intensive patriotism.

This expression is found in Flag Day parades, indoor gatherings, Flag Day exercises for the school children and general display of the beautiful banner which symbolizes "The Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

Particularly appropriate to Flag Day is the presence in Boston of the heroic "Blue Devils" of France, soldiers who have won repeated honors in the world-struggle on the other side of the Atlantic.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT.

After a succession of receptions today at Faneuil Hall, the Chamber of Commerce and on Boston Common the "Blue Devils" will march in parade this evening from the City Club to Mechanics building, where there will be a great feature at a Flag Day mass meeting.

Flag Day comes with especial meaning to the officers and men in the various branches of our national defence.

Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, U. S. A., commanding Department of the Northeast, calls upon everyone to observe the day, saying:

Don't regard the Flag as a mere symbol of patriotism. Put it where it will fly by with dignity from your homes. On Flag Day let us learn more of the history of the Flag. It is educational. It stands for what it will bring about in the brotherhood of nations.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks honors Flag Day with meetings and parades.

McCALL'S PROCLAMATION.

Governor McCall, in his Flag Day proclamation, said:

As directed by a resolve of the year 1911, and in accordance with its language, which provides "that the Governor shall annually set apart that day," I hereby proclaim the fourteenth day of June as Flag Day because, in the words of the law, "that date being the anniversary of the adoption of the National Flag by the Continental Congress in 1777, he shall issue his proclamation recommending that the day be observed by the people of the Commonwealth in the display of the Flag and in such other ways as will be in harmony with the general character of the day." In this manner is the purpose of the day made clear, and the few words I shall add cannot in any manner enlarge upon the patriotism that caused the passage of the law in response to the plaints of our people.

As we come to know that for which the Flag stands, and as we see the sorrow, trial, suffering and privation through which it has come down to us, we look upon it with the greatest reverence, and the grandeur of it as a symbol is borne in upon us. Our Flag is an endless source of instruction and inspiration, through which we can profit, direct our thoughts, not only for this day but for each day in the year. For such observances lend themselves to the minds of our boys and girls, but Flag Day is one in which the school children can take an active part, and I urge upon them on this day, in the schools and elsewhere, to learn something new about the Flag. In gathering this information from their parents or teachers they will look back upon that day as one of real accomplishment. May we all observe the day in a manner that will make it all that the framers of the legislation meant it to be and make us at the end better men and women, consequently better citizens.

SHOULD REVERE FLAG.

Brigadier-General Ruckman said, in urging general and proper observance of the day:

"Don't regard the Flag as a mere symbol of patriotism, but give it some meaning that will impress all that we have a deep reverence for the Stars and Stripes.

"I have no doubt there are many people who regard the Flag with great reverence. There are others who need, however, to get some information upon it. Don't allow a flag to become the repository of a pitcher of water at any public meeting. That's not the proper use of the Flag. Where you hang that Flag, let there be some significance to the way that you hang it. Don't let the Flag trail in the dust.

"Put it where it will fly with dignity in your homes and by the way that you place it in your home signify that you have some respect for the Flag and what stands back of it.

"It is for this reason that I have much admiration for the training given the Boy Scouts. They are taught the history of the Flag and have women with it what every one should know of our national independence.

"On Flag Day, let us learn something more about the Flag. How few people could tell much about it except that it is the Flag of their country.

"Let us use this opportunity to get familiar with the history of the Flag and to gather the information that will make us use it with reverence and awe.

"Nothing disturbs me more than to see a Flag on a pole allowed to get weather-beaten and apparently neglected.

"We should be so trained in our admiration of our Flag that when such instances come before us, we will prepare to report them and have them corrected.

"Flag Day should be used by the aliens to a greater understanding of what the flag stands for—that the commercial interests which many of them find in this country have no comparison with the story of this great nation and what it stands for.

"Make Flag Day, in other words educational.

"Make it a day to show reverence for the flag, to know how to display it on various occasions, and let our young people share this knowledge with others.

It is the flag of the Brotherhood of the Nations."

HISTORY OF FLAG DAY.

Why is today Flag Day—the anniversary of the Stars and Stripes?

The date, June 14, 1777, has been accurately fixed by the action of the Continental Congress as recorded in the Journal of Congress. That body was then sitting in Philadelphia, having moved over March 4 from a little over two months' sitting in Baltimore.

The Stars and Stripes drew gazed floating over the headquarters of General George Washington, on the heights of Cambridge, on January 1, 1776. This was the Father of Our Country promulgated his individual declaration of independence. When the British soldiers saw the flag they imagined it was a token of submission, but very soon discovered their error.

The British Register of 1776 says: "The rebels burned the King's speech and changed their colors from a plain red ground to a flag with thirteen stripes, as a symbol of their union of thirteen colonies."

From January 2, 1776, to July 4, 1776, six months elapsed before the promulgation of the Declaration of Independence of the United States. Moreover, almost another year elapsed before the national emblem was officially sent upon its mission of universal love and liberty. Thus Washington was one year and a half in advance of Congress in flinging this "Old Glory" of ours to the free air of heaven.

The official order of Congress on June 14 read as follows: "Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States shall be of thirteen stripes of alternate red and white, with a union of thirteen stars of white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The report of the committee who designed and passed upon the flag read as follows: "The stars of the flag represent a new constellation of states, rising in the west. The idea is taken from the great constellation Lyra, which, in the hands of Orpheus, signified harmony. The blue in the field is taken from the edge of the covenanters' banner in Scotland, significant of a league Covenant of the United States against oppression. The stars are disposed in a circle symbolizing the perpetuity of the Union; the ring, signifying eternity. The thirteen stripes, with the thirteen stars, show the number of united colonies, and denote the subordination of the states to the Union, as well as mutually among themselves. The red, the color which in the Roman days was a symbol of defiance, denotes daring, and the white, purity."

This June 14th resolution establishing the flag was not promulgated by the secretary of the Congress until September 3, 1777. This flag was first carried in the battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777, and was borne in all the subsequent encampments, marches and battles of the Revolutionary War.

ORIGIN OF DAY.

The origin of Flag Day was on June 14, 1889. The originator was George Bloch, who was in charge of a free kindergarten for the poor of New York city. This patriotic educator conceived the idea and put it into execution. With his eleven school on June 14, 1889. Instantly, the idea struck a popular chord. It was subsequently adopted by the State Board of Education. Then it was incorporated into the laws of New York.

June 14 is the date of the battle of Naseby in 1645, the battle of Marengo in 1800 and the battle of Port Hudson, La., in 1863. It is the birthday of Robert Anderson, who commanded Fort Sumpter when the Civil War began (1805); Harriet Beecher Stowe, the author (1811); Andrew Campbell, the inventor (1821), and Richard Realf, the poet (1834). It is the date of the death of Sir Harry Vane, the English patriot (1662), and General Louis Desaiux, killed at Marengo (1800).

The evolution of the flag since the days of the Revolution, when it had thirteen stars, follows:

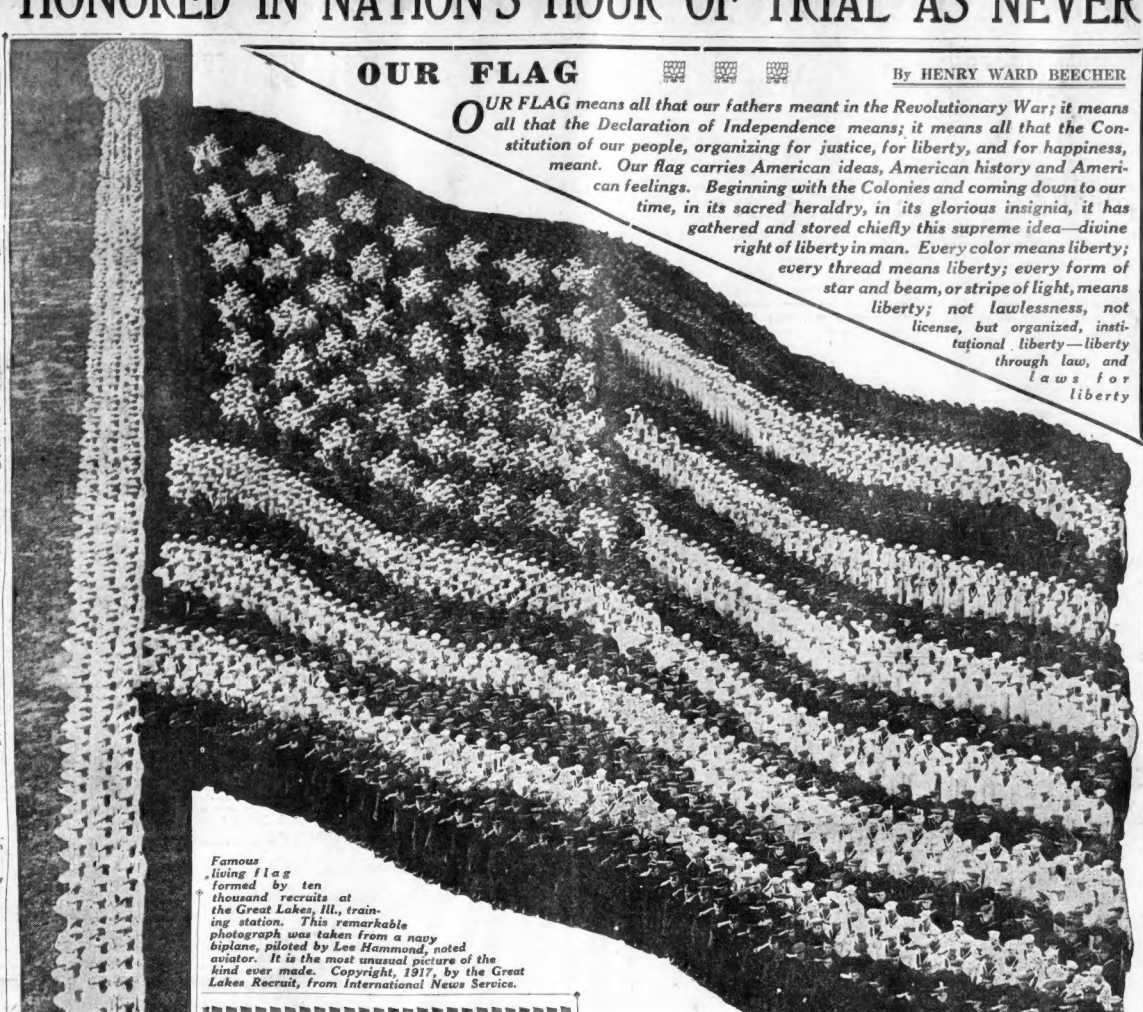
During the War of 1812 it had fifteen stars.

In the Mexican War twenty-nine stars gleamed in its blue field.

In the Civil War there were thirty-five stars.

The Spanish-American War saw forty-five stars shining gloriously and victoriously.

In these days of the greatest war in history, our national flag bears forty-eight stars, proclaiming a union of that many States. The forty-eighth star was added when Arizona was granted statehood on February 14, 1912.



Famous living flag formed by ten thousand recruits at the Great Lakes, Ill., training station. This remarkable photograph was taken from a navy biplane, piloted by Lee Hammond, noted aviator. OUR FLAG

By HENRY WARD BEECHER

OUR FLAG means all that our fathers meant in the Revolutionary War; it means all that the Declaration of Independence means; it means all that the Constitution of our people, organizing for justice, for liberty, and for happiness, meant. Our flag carries American ideas, American history and American feelings. Beginning with the Colonies and coming down to our time, in its sacred heraldry, in its glorious insignia, it has gathered and stored chiefly this supreme idea—divine right of liberty in man. Every color means liberty; every thread means liberty; every form of star and beam, or stripe of light, means liberty; not lawlessness, not license, but organized, institutional liberty—liberty through law, and laws for liberty

Gen. Ruckman Tells How to Display the Flag

The following instructions for displaying the American Flag were given by Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, Commanding Department of the Northeast:

The American Flag should be flown from a pole. In the United States Army all flags are flown from poles and in no other way. Follow the Army rule.

When the Flag is hung vertically, to be viewed from one side only, the blue field should be at the right, as one looks at it. When the Flag is hung horizontally, the field should be at the left.

Do not put the Flag below the person sitting. Nothing should rest upon the Flag, except the Holy Bible. When the Flag is used at a public meeting, do not put it in such a position that it could be struck by the chairman's gavel, or by anything else.

The Flag should never be draped. It should hang in straight lines. Stripes of red, white and blue can be used as drapery. When the stripes are hung horizontally the blue one, representing the field of the flag, should be at the top.

The Flag should never be worn as a badge, unless very small, and then it is pinned over the left breast or to the left of collar lapel. In crossing the American Flag with the flag of another Nation, the American Flag should be at the right. When carried in a parade with another flag it should likewise be placed on the right.

Boise, Ida., June 14.—Sheep shearers in Idaho are making $40 a day, and if their demands for more wages are met they will make $60 a day, according to J. H. GUN POINTED AT HEAD, SAYS MRS. WILBUR

Declares She Gave Permit to Sell Jewels Only When Threatened by Dr. Homer

Chicago? A.—I asked her to write or telegraph.

Q.—How did you know he was in Chicago? A.—She told me.

Q.—Did you ask Miss Montgomery to write about the jewels? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell her to say to Dr. Homer that unless he got a high price for them in Chicago to try New York and Boston, and to be sure to erase your name from the box? A.—No. I told her to write him to take good care of the jewels, because he had no right to them, and they should be in a safe deposit vault.

Q.—How did you know he had them? A.—He had them in his hand the last time I saw them, and said he was going to take them.

Q.—Was your name on the box? A.—Yes.

She then identified the letter she had written authorizing Dr. Homer to sell the jewels and use the proceeds.

Q.—Did you have any talk with the clerk at the Copley-Plaza when you deposited there $6,320 and the jewels? A.—Yes.

"NO. FIDDLESTICKS!"

Q.—Did you tell him you wanted your name on the box? A.—No. Fiddlesticks! I don't go around telling my business to every man.

Q.—Dr. Homer said at the Hotel Touraine that if you didn't send for your jewels you would have to stay all night. A.—Yes; that was one of the things he said. He also said he would send for my brother.

The testimony had brought out thus far that Dr. Homer maintained that Mrs. Wilbur owed him a considerable sum for dental work, and that he took the jewels from her in Los Angeles as security for the payment. He returning them to her in Chicago, and later, she alleges, stole them from her at the Touraine.

Q.—Did you call the Copley-Plaza before writing the letter authorizing the sale of the jewels? A.—Yes, two or three hours before. Dr. Homer held a pistol right to my face with his arm around me, and told me to be exactly what I said. He ordered me to tell the hotel people to send my jewels by messenger. The clerk said, "I think it is all right, because I recognize your voice, but you must send an order for them." He called a messenger and I telephoned to my maid.

Q.—When did the jewels arrive? A.—About 5 o'clock.

WITH DOCTOR SEVEN HOURS.

Q.—You did not leave the doctor's room till seven hours later? A.—Yes.

Q.—You were afraid of annoyance and scandal from Dr. Homer? A.—Yes.

Q.—Yet you went to the Hotel Touraine to get a room when you knew he was there? A.—Yes, but I gave up taking the room, because they wouldn't have dogs.

Q.—When you went to Plymouth and the North Shore, it was because you were afraid of the doctor? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you get letters from him? A.—Loads of them.

YOUNG OFFICERS EAGER TO GET INTO ACTION

Because of the ambition of young officers to get into action in France, Brigadier General John W. Ruckman, commanding the Department of the Northeast, has found it wellnigh impossible to get any aides. Since the departure of Captain Joseph J. O'Hare and Lieutenant Richard Harte, aides to Brigadier General John A. Johnston, no aides have appeared to help General Ruckman.

"I've asked for aides and thought I had one, but there's a great attraction in France for young officers," remarked the general.

PROBE DEATH OF FRANKLIN MAN BY POISON

Franklin, June 14.—Officials representing District Attorney Frederick G. Katzmann of Norfolk County are making an inquiry into conditions which resulted in the mistaken use of a deadly poison by Alfred Potenza, a fifty-five-year-old resident in the City Mills district of Franklin. The body of the man was exhumed for examingtion by Dr. George B. Magrath of Boston.

Relatives of the dead man, notably a brother, whose home is in East Boston, put the matter up to District Attorney Katzmann. This brother inclines to the belief that there may be some circumstance which was overlooked by the authorities in the previous investigation. He does not believe that Potenza would intentionally take a dose of poison, for the East Boston man knows of no reason why his relative should kill himself.

Potenza supposed he was taking a liquid of magnesia to cure indigestion according to his wife to be the fact at the time he dropped dead. This was May 1 at about 1 o'clock in the morning. The man had become ill and he went to the closet in which medicine bottles were kept and took a teaspoonful of the supposed magnesia in a wine glass of water. This was a practice he had followed for many years when he became distressed.

It is said by the relatives that the man had had his prescriptions filled in a Hanover street drug store in Boston, of which an Italian-speaking druggist was the proprietor.

Only a few days before the fatality, the bottle had been newly filled. His wife says that he had no sooner taken the dose of whatever it was in the bottle before he began to show evidences of increased illness.

He called to his wife, and as she approached him, she heard him say: "Marion, goodby, I am going to die." Mrs. Potenza says he died within fifteen minutes after having taken the dose from the bottle. This was before a doctor, summoned from Franklin, could reach the Potenza home.

STUDENTS WIN PRAISE FOR WAR WORK

When the United States Government called upon Massachusetts to supply 25,000 men to work in the shipyards, the United States Public Service Reserve and the United States Employment Reserve Service, of which Colonel William A. Gaston is chairman, took charge of the recruiting.

Almost from the first the rooms of the committee at the State House were crowded each day with applicants eager to serve their country. But the committee found a big job ahead of it in classifying the men in different trades and by the cities and towns they came from.

Director Gaston conferred with G. L. Hoffacher, principal of the Boston Clerical School, and it was arranged that the classifying and compiling of names and trades be undertaken by the students of that school. The students entered into the work with a wholesome and patriotic spirit, and during the months of February and March classified and compiled 28,000 names, systematizing their work in a way that won the praise and commendation of the State and Government officials.

Not content with giving praise, however, the Massachusetts Committee of the United States Public Service Reserve and the United States Employment Service has prepared a testimonial certificate, to be presented to the Boston Clerical School, expressing grateful appreciation for the valuable services rendered by the students.

The certificate bears the insignia of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the names of the committee. It reads as follows:

"The United States Public Service Reserve and Committee on War Efficiency of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety gratefully appreciate the valuable services rendered by the Boston Clerical School in classifying and arranging 28,000 cards of enrollment of Massachusetts mechanics who patriotically registered during the months of February and March, 1918, for shipyard service, as an aid to the nation in its imperative need for merchant ships with which to overcome the submarine menace and maintain our forces at the front."

The certificate is signed by H. S. Endicott, executive manager of the Committee on Public Safety, and William A. Gaston, director for Massachusetts of the United States Public Service Reserve.

The certificate will be presented to the students of the school tonight in conjunction with the graduation exercises, and the student body feel proud of the system they have perfected and the service they have rendered their country and State.

ORDER 'POWDER PUFF' YOUTHS TO JAIL

Six Accused Young Men Face Court in Anti-Vice Crusade

Vanity bags made of flowered silk; powder puffs with pink scented rice power still clinging to them; a rouge stick or two—these were some of the evidence offered in the men's session of the Municipal Court today before Judge Murray in the case of six young men arrested in the vice crusade. The technical charges against them were "idle and disorderly conduct."

Cosmetics were not the only effeminate foible that the prisoners indulged in. According to police officers, some of them wore women's underclothing—silk underwear and long garters, and one had on a pair of corsets. Some confusion arose from the fact that they called each other by women's names. Two were "Alberta"; one, "Ruth"; another, "Florence Hindley."

CARRIED A POWDER PUFF.

In the dock these accused of having carried vanity bags denied ownership. Officers testified that the men, when arrested, threw the bags away. One man admitted having had a powder puff, but said that it had been given him by "a friend."

"You had better avoid friends who use powder in that way," said Judge Murray.

All were sentenced from four to six months in jail, and all appealed. They gave their names as Manuel Guzman, Harry A. Cross, Leslie Carlisle, Joseph E. Casey, Paul Stancetti and Frank Donnelly.

The day's roundup included 41 women and 18 men, on charges of being idle or disorderly. Ten of the men had court records and were sentenced to various institutions, the House of Correction, the Women's Prison at Sherborn, the State Farm. A few were placed on probation and will go to the House of the Good Shepherd.

A former alderman of Cambridge who had been arrested in Scollay square pleaded not guilty, claiming that he was at the time employed by a Court street lawyer in an "investigation."

Patrolman Sullivan of Station 2 appeared against two women. One wore a wedding ring and had in her pocket an application for a marriage license at the time of her arrest, in the company of a sailor.

The man followed her to the police station and said that he was willing to marry her, according to testimony, and he appeared in the court today with the same statement. The case was continued for investigation.

Since the vice crusade was started the police have noticed that many women have been leaving town, some of them via the North Station, whence it is believed they are on their way to points on the northern New England coast where there are naval stations. Police of those localities have been warned and will be on the lookout for the women.

Baseball Makes 'Yanks' Accurate With Bombs

By International News Service.

Paris, June 14.—French officers, loud in their praise of American soldiers' efficiency as well as bravery, say baseball has made the Americans "the premier grenade throwers of the world."

One officer said: "I saw Americans, at a given signal, shower grenades unerringly ninety feet, at a line of German helmets peeping above a shallow trench. Later the trench was found to be filled with dead. Also, football has made natural strategists of the American officers. The poilus are fired with enthusiasm at the way the Americans go into battle. They lunge forward, yelling like savages, and they are gluttons for bayonet fighting. The cold steel has no terrors for them. They are proud of their wounds. They know what it is to be a German prisoner, and they fight to death rather than surrender. They are dead shots, and there is no danger that they are afraid to expose themselves to death. The Germans are open-mouthed with astonishment at these fighters from America."

SALVATION ARMY WORK APPRECIATED BY HAIG

By International News Service.

London, June 14.—Thanking the Salvation Army for the service it has rendered to the British armies in France, Sir D. Haig says in a message to General Booth:

"The Salvation Army workers have shown themselves to be of the right sort, and I value their presence here as being one of the best influences on the moral and spiritual welfare of the troops at the bases.

"The inestimable value of these influences is realized when the morale of the troops is afterwards put to the test at the front."

TOILET WATER PROVES DECIDEDLY ALCOHOLIC

Rock Island, Ill., June 14.—Toilet water was contained in whiskey bottles found on persons arrested by Federal authorities for attempting to smuggle liquor from Rock Island to Davenport, Ia., they said. Investigation, however, proved it was not the kind used in the bath or as a face lotion and they were remanded to jail for trial.

"BONE DRY" AMENDMENT WINS IN COMMITTEE

Washington, June 14.—In the face of President Wilson's opposition the Senate Agricultural Committee this afternoon voted to recommend adoption of the Jones "bone dry" nationwide prohibition amendment as a rider to the agriculture extension bill.

LIFE OF HORROR FOR DEPORTED BELGIANS

By International News Service.

Washington, June 14.—More evidence of the barbarities to which the Germans are subjecting the men, women and even children of ravished Belgium was laid before the State Department today by the Belgian legation.

Together with already cabled accounts of the continued forcible deportation of men to work in Germany, the communication discloses that Belgians, even and children, are sent directly behind the lines, often on military work against their countrymen, in direct violation of international law.

In the camps where the deported Belgians are herded the worst conditions prevail, the evidence showed. They are exposed to all the inclemencies of weather, badly equipped, without clothing to change, poorly housed, devoured by vermin, insufficiently and badly nourished and compelled to do excessive labor.

As punishment for their refusal they are beaten with rifle butts, tied for a long period to posts with nothing to eat except a little soup and poor bread in the evening. Illness, particularly tuberculosis, has ravaged the ranks of these unhappy people and no grave is the situation physicians say it will make its devastating effects felt for generations.

A complete example of the condition of some of the deported Belgian women was cited in the story of an eye witness of the situation at the Holzminden camp.

"Some thirty women, having refused to work on sacks for the use of the German army, were shut up in barracks No. 93, a filthy hole, without any light," wrote this witness. "Left without any food to speak of they were imprisoned from the 12th of August to the 19th of September, 1917. They would have perhaps died of hunger if charitable hands had not passed them, surreptitiously, a little food prepared secretly.

"From four o'clock in the afternoon until midnight these unfortunates had to get along without any toilet receptacles. Their mattresses and blankets and even woolen clothing which they wore were taken from them.

"Fortunately a representative of the Spanish legation at Brussels came to the camp. An hour before the arrival of this visitor the prisoners were released, but the representative was informed of their suffering."

The heaviest fines were imposed for failure of communities to furnish their quotas.

A copy of the vain appeal of the Belgian senate to the German governor general accompanies the disclosures, which were made public by the State Department without comment.

PRIZE DRILL TO FEATURE CO. I BALL

O, Boy! It's going to be some ball! What is? Why I Company's jazz military ball, at the Boston Arena, Saturday evening, June 29, or course.

Yessiree! You know that ball in aid of the company fund—jazz, dance, concert, prize drills and all the rest of it. I Company is the only "broke" outfit in the 301st Regiment, remember, and I Company is "Boston's Own."

Miss Dorothy Forbes has been appointed chairman and ex-Governor David I. Walsh treasurer of the civilian committee in charge of the ball. In case I Company should go to the front to fight the Hun before the ball happens, this civilian committee is going to run the ball and send the cash to France.

If I Company is in town for the ball—well, the civilian committee will have supervision of the affair anyhow.

Sergeant Eddie Mack, who is chairman of the soldier committee on the ball, and his assistants have arranged an elaborate program. They are canvassing the business district for space in this program, and are selling it so fast that there is danger of the "standing room only" sign being hung out on the program almost any minute.

Borden's
Evaporated Milk

Wise Daily Economy

There's three-fold economy in using Borden's Evaporated Milk:

Takes the place of cream in tea and coffee.
Remains sweet for several days after the can is opened.
Costs less than fresh fluid milk of equal purity and quality.

These three reasons are why Borden's Evaporated Milk "Cuts the Cost of Cooking."

Borden's Evaporated Milk adds energy-creating elements to the nutriment of any dish in which it is used. For Borden's is pure, rich, cow's milk—nothing added—with part of the water removed.

Use Borden's Evaporated Milk in cooking wherever a recipe calls for milk. Adding an equal amount of water thins Borden's, to the consistency of ordinary milk.

For coffee, cocoa, chocolate and tea use it as it comes from the can—undiluted.

The more you use Borden's Evaporated Milk in place of ordinary milk the greater your saving will be.

"HITCHY KOO" STAR FREED; TELLS OF MIDNIGHT REVEL AND RAID IN HOTEL

Mlle. Gilda Darthy, French actress whom Irene Bordoni accuses of stealing the love of her husband, Edward Beeman.

New York, June 14—Irene Bordoni, leading woman of Raymond Hitchcock's "Hitchy Koo" company, has been granted a divorce from Edward Beeman by Judge Mullan in the Supreme Court.

The granting of the decree followed testimony of the most dramatic nature, in which midnight raids upon the apartments of Beeman, negro valets with rolling pins, and Beeman and a woman, attired as though in the garden of Eden, were conspicuous features.

Gilda Darthy, a French actress who was acclaimed as one of the most talented women of the French stage when she came to this country in 1916, figured prominently in the suit, as she did in the midnight scene in the apartment of Beeman.

According to the tale of the wife, Miss Bordoni and Beeman were married November 17, 1915. All went well until the advent of Mlle. Darthy. An emotional French actress, she is said to have injected into the scene all of the elements of a French farce. As she was leading woman of the French Opera Comique, in which Beeman was leading man, opportunities were not lacking for the rapid ripening of the friendship.

When the suspicions of the wife became aroused she engaged the services of a private detective. The raid upon the Beeman apartment, to which the party was admitted by Miss Bordoni's pass key, resulted. A locked door was opened by Beeman's negro valet, who used a rolling pin for a weapon.

Beeman made a general denial of all charges and said that whatever he did was with the consent of his wife.

Free rides on street cars for United States soldiers and sailors, as advocated editorially by the Boston AMERICAN, meets the approval of men in all walks of life in New England. Mayors, legislators, editors and everyday workmen indorse the idea. They all declare it's a fine proposition and one that should be carried to the end.

Within the next three weeks five public trustees will be appointed by Governor McCall, under the new law, to operate the Boston Elevated Street Railway, and it is likely that one of the first questions considered by the board will be whether men in the service uniform of Uncle Sam shall ride free of charge on cars of the company.

Those in close touch with the situation believe that free riding by soldiers and sailors would not overcrowd the company's cars any more than they are now overcrowded.

While there would be a loss of revenue it would be made up by the people, and, as the majority of the people who ride favor the idea, it is thought the trustees will act favorably on the plan.

The majority of our boys in khaki and blue come from the people and as one man said in discussing the idea, "nothing is too good for them."

Some of the opinions of Bostonians follow:

By LOUIS A. COOK, Jr.
Assistant Clerk Norfolk Superior Court.

The Boston AMERICAN plan of free rides for our men in uniform is particularly timely. The autoists who stops his car and invites a soldier or sailor to ride with him does a courteous and grateful act, affording himself a real pleasure while helping our brave boys however slightly, along life's road. Our railroad commissioners should act at once to permit all men in the United States uniform the same courtesies which have been enjoyed by friend and foe alike.

By JOSEPH McGRATH
Representative from Ward 17, Dorchester.

I am glad to note that the AMERICAN is advocating another fine idea. I believe it to be the patriotic duty of the street railway companies to give the boys in the service free rides. Now that the Governor has signed the bill whereby the Boston Elevated will be operated by five public trustees I feel the matter of free rides for soldiers and sailors, so far as Boston is concerned, can be easily arranged.

By DANIEL P. O'CONNELL
President Soldiers and Sailors Relief Society of Ward 18, Dorchester.

The AMERICAN as usual is on the job in the right direction in advocating a great and just cause for the men in the service of the United States. I firmly believe too much cannot be done for the boys who are risking their lives for us.

By JOHN B. CASHMAN,
Representative from Ward 2, East Boston.

The proposition of the Boston AMERICAN that men appearing in uniform of any branch of the United States army or navy be allowed the privilege of free car rides is one that meets with my hearty approval. This is opportunity whereby the railroads of the State can show their appreciation of these men who receive such small salaries in comparison to the sacrifices they are making.

By DANIEL F. O'CONNELL,
United States Inspector of Explosives.

The proposition to give our sailors and soldiers free transportation while in uniform is patriotic inasmuch as it will show the defenders of our country that the people are considerate of their welfare in seeing that they are accorded this privilege, which will be certainly appreciated by these hardy sons of Uncle Sam.

FRENCH WOUNDED FUND TO REMAIN SEPARATE

The American Fund for French Wounded will continue under its own name and carrying out its own program of work, instead of merging with the Red Cross, it is announced. The decision was reached after a conference at which representatives of both organizations considered the problem. Charge Women Carry Beer in Cans to Soldiers

Providence, June 14.—The Police Commissioners will be asked to ban selling beer to women to carry home, say Department of Justice officials, who claim they have unearthed an amazing traffic in "rushing the can" by lodging house habitues, who are charged with serving men in uniform. For weeks, investigators have reported, the increase in beer selling in cans has grown to large proportions.

Specific instances where women have made several trips with cans in short periods have been reported to Department of Justice officials, who say they are prepared to ask the Police Commissioners to put a stop to the traffic.

MISS FRICK WILL SOON GO BACK TO WAR ZONE

Home for Rest, She Is Eager to Continue Work Among French Sufferers

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

Submarine dangers, or raids of the ruthless enemy's forces, can't daunt the courage and energy of Miss Helen Clay Frick, only daughter of multi-millionaire Henry Clay Frick, in her chosen work of helping the refugee women and children in devastated France.

Miss Frick, who arrived Wednesday from the war zone after six months' work as volunteer worker for the Red Cross, is eager to return to her work after a brief rest with her parents at the Frick Summer home, Eagle Rock, Tyrone, Pa.

During her sojourn abroad Miss Frick endeared herself to every one with whom she came in contact for her simplicity, sympathy and splendid good sense and for untiring efforts to relieve and help the women and children sufferers sent back from Germany.

SPENT MILLIONS IN WORK.

Since the beginning of the world war American women of wealth have felt the call to aid their sisters in distress across the pond, and the names of the women who have given hospitals, ambulances, and turned over their residences abroad for the relief of war victims would make a goodly list.

The work of Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, the Vincent Astors and scores of other rich Americans has been one of the splendid pictures of humanitarian efforts that this world conflict has produced.

There is something particularly appealing about the work Miss Helen Frick has been doing abroad, because in the first place, she has gone along in the same quiet, unobtrusive way that she has here at home, where she has spent millions of her father's money in philanthropic work—bettering the conditions of her less fortunate sisters, building hospitals and donating playgrounds for the children.

FATHER'S WISH REALIZED.

In France it was not only money that she gave; she worked from early morning until late at night, giving of her strength and courage in an effort to put new life and hope into the forlorn wrecks of humanity that were being shipped back to France in droves.

Some years ago Henry Clay Frick, when introducing Miss Frick to some intimates, said: "This is my daughter, Miss Frick, whom I expect will make the family name famous."

From the reports of the women who worked side by side with Miss Frick on the Swiss border and in the ruined villages in France, his wish is fully realized, for the titian-haired daughter of Pittsburgh's richest citizen has made a name for herself through her womanliness, courage and usefulness, and aged French women mention her name when they say their beads at night and thank the Bon Dieu for their deliverance.

Miss Frick, with her usual modesty, forbade any mention of her work abroad. But her friends could not be restrained from telling something of the hardships undergone cheerfully by the petted daughter of one of America's richest men.

WORKED EARLY AND LATE.

"Miss Frick has always loved to work among children, as her work around Pittsburgh and Boston demonstrates," began Miss Frick's friend.

"Her consternation and sorrow at the appaling condition of some of the neglected children was pitiful. Volunteering, as she did, to do any work the American Red Cross would give her, she worked from early morning until late at night, washing and cleaning the poor, dirty waifs, binding up wounds and often singing them to sleep.

"People in this country who have not been over have no idea of the bigness of the question of caring for these helpless women and children.

"Miss Frick will not long remain in this country, the call is too poignant and she has found her work to do."

34-CENTURY JOB TO SEIZE ALL BANGOR RUM

Bangor, Me., June 14.—Some unfeeling statistician has figured that Sheriff T. Herbert White, recently ousted by the Governor and Council, had a thirty-four century job ahead of him, at the rate he was going, to seize Bangor's liquor receipts for the first five months of this year.

In other words, the sheriff would not have "cleaned up" the five-months' rum receipts until 5326 A. D.

It was shown at the White hearing, by railroad, express and steamboat records, that during the period from January 2 to June 1, 1918, about 311,000 pounds, or approximately 41,300 gallons of whiskey were brought into this city.

Counsel for White pleaded that this flood was almost entirely medical supplies, also that White had seized seventy-three quarts.

Counsel argued that the sheriff had "done very well," and should get another chance.

But a figure-hound in the visitors' gallery reckoned, from this as a basis, that it would take White 3,406 years longer to seize the rest of the 40,000 and odd gallons which sets the final clean-up ahead just about to New Year's of 5325.

SIX WANT THAT OFFICE.

This date, of course, makes no account of the amazing supply on hand before the recent five-months' flood began to pour in.

Nor does it allow for the oceans that, at the same rate, would have been engulfing the community while the sheriff was laboriously inching along on his thirty-four century job.

A new sheriff is to be elected in September. White, the deposed one, is out for the Democratic nomination at the primaries next Monday. There are six candidates in all, three in each party.

The place pays $2,800 annual salary. Fees bring it up to an estimated $4,000.

Eight men are credited with having a practical monopoly of Bangor's liquor trade, to the exclusion of 100 or more others, who had sold wet goods prior to the eight-sided "trust."

The favored few received goods in carload lots, sold at top prices, and made money faster that some war contractors.

BARTENDER DOES WELL.

One of the dealers was formerly a bartender at $15 a week. He is now said to have cleaned up $55,000 in about a year.

Another, who worked at a trade for $17 a week, netted $20,000 inside of a year.

A third admits, if he knows you well enough, that he made $32,000 in sixteen months.

The whiskey profiteers regret the closing of the lid. But there is balm in their profits. As one of them put it:

"What do I care? I got mine all made. I don't care who's sheriff now."

One of the most vivid stories brought out in illustration of the security felt by members of the "trust" relates to seizure of whiskey held by one of the "trust members."

The dealer was in Boston when the raid was made. He heard about it. He called the sheriff on the long-distance telephone and, as the story was told, "read the riot act" to the sheriff for the deeds of his deputy.

BRITISH AIRMEN DROP BOMBS ON METZ-SABLON

By International News Service.

Science Solves the Butter Problem with Butter Made from the White Meat of Cocoanuts

Just when the price of butter threatens to make it an unattainable luxury, science perfects TROCO, the new vegetable butter made from the white meat of the cocoanut.

It tastes exactly like the finest creamery butter and is even more wholesome and pure.

It is churned with fresh Pasteurized milk to give true butter flavor.

Because of old laws, made before this discovery, we are compelled to label this nut-made butter as oleomargarine.

But it contains no oleo oils—no hog or beef fat, nor any preservatives.

TROCO is simply vegetable fats, churned with milk for the butter taste.

Yet this appetizing combination costs no more than does the best grades of oleomargarine.

TROCO

Can't Be Told From Butter

TROCO has all the good qualities of fine creamery butter. The only difference you will notice is the cost.

It is as nutritious as cream butter, and as easily digested. It possesses the fuel value needed for energy.

TROCO when served has butter's golden color, because we supply the same vegetable coloring used by all butter makers.

Served on your table, without explanation, no one can tell the difference.

Goes Farther In Cooking

TROCO, used in cooking, gives the same results as butter, except that it goes farther. Cooks should remember this and reduce the amount.

It makes such cake as has not been known since butter soared in price.

It allows the old-fashioned "rich cooking" that builds up the family health.

Your Dealer Can Supply TROCO

If your dealer doesn't already keep TROCO, ask him to get it for you. Tell him you must have this new-day successor to butter.

Insist until he secures a supply.

For TROCO solves one of the biggest problems presented by our high food prices—

—The problem of serving appetizing, wholesome butter at a moderate cost.

Made by the

TROCO NUT BUTTER CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

HILTON & ALDRICH CO.,
40 South Market St., Boston.
New England Distributors

NOTICE: Under the law, all butter substitutes must be branded Oleomargarine. That law was passed before TROCO was invented. So the TROCO package is branded "Oleomargarine." Though there is no oleo in it. All butter substitutes must pay an extra tax if colored. So the color for TROCO comes in a capsule. Add it yourself, as you do with Oleomargarine.

WOMAN HELD AT QUINCY ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Arrest Made in Store After Warning Had Been Sent Out; $18.50 a Favorite Figure

Passing bad checks along the South Shore was one of the easiest things in the world for young Mrs. Marion J. Williams of No. 120 Main street, South Weymouth, according to the Quincy police.

Mrs. Williams was arrested in Remick's clothing store in Quincy on a worthless check charge after warning had been sent around to Quincy merchants to be on the lookout for any checks drawn upon the Weymouth Trust Company.

The police planned, when arranging for her arraignment today, to place an additional charge against her of forging the name of Edward W. Hunt, a Weymouth manufacturer.

Before Mrs. Williams was trapped in Remick's store she had succeeded, the police declare, in passing eight worthless checks on merchants in East Weymouth, Rockland and Hingham. The checks were drawn for a total of $168. In exchange for these she, merchants gave up $144.50 in change and $24.50 worth of goods.

Mrs. Williams' favorite check figure, as the police tell it, was $18.50. Four of the eight checks listed were for that amount.

It was an $18.50 check, too, which finally led to her arrest at Remick's in Quincy.

South Braintree merchants are "check shy," it seems. Dyer & Sullivan of that town reported that a young woman tried to pass upon them a check signed by Edward W. Hunt of Weymouth in payment for groceries. One of the firm thoughtfully delayed long enough to telephone Mr. Hunt. Then the check was refused.

Mrs. Williams, the police say, is the wife of Ralph Howard Williams of South Weymouth, and has lived with her mother for the past four years.

The Quincy police started on the trail when they received word from the Weymouth police of the check-passing on Weymouth merchants.

PRESIDENT FOR WORLD-WIDE SUFFRAGE

Votes for Women as Reward for Services Rendered to Allied Cause

By STANLEY M. REYNOLDS.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 15.—President Wilson has taken leadership in a movement for worldwide woman suffrage.

In a striking response to a memorial from the French Union for Woman Suffrage endorsed by the suffrage organizations of Great Britain, Belgium, Italy and Portugal, he went on record that equal franchise rights for women shall be definitely established among all nations as a principal achievement in the winning of permanent peace.

His message, transmitted through Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, follows:

"I have read your message with the deepest interest, and I welcome the opportunity to say that I agree without reservation that the full and sincere democratic reconstruction of the world for which we are striving, and which we are determined to bring about at any cost, will not have been completely or adequately attained until women are admitted to the suffrage, and that only by that action can the nations of the world realize for the benefit of future generations the full ideal force of opinion or the full humane force of action.

PRAISES WORK IN WAR.

"The services of women during this supreme crisis of the world's history have been of the most signal usefulness and distinction. The war could not have been fought without them, or its sacrifices endured. It is high time that some part of our debt of gratitude to them should be acknowledged and paid, and the only acknowledgment they ask is their admission to the suffrage. Can we justly refuse it?

"As for America, it is my earnest hope that the Senate of the United States will give an unmistakable answer to this question by passing the suffrage amendment of our Federal constitution before the end of this session.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

The memorial which the President was answering follows:

"In the historic message which announces to the world the entry into the struggle of American force and thought, you declare unforgettable formula upon which your great republic awaits a victory—the right of peoples to self-determination and a durable peace for generations to come.

"The French suffragists and those of the Allied countries have heard your beautiful and strong words and they unite in prayer to you for the accomplishment of the following resolution:

"Considering that from this war there has come a new international right founded upon the right of people to self-determination.

"That nothing can be claimed to speak authoritatively in the name of the people which excludes woman from the life of the nations.

"Considering, moreover, that women during the actual conflict have shown the value of the social work which they are capable of performing.

GUARANTEE OF PEACE.

"Considering that the participation of wives and mothers in the suffrage would be the greatest guarantee of the peace to come, the need that the belligerent countries have of their help in the present conflict, the sufferings (the moral as well as the physical) this war has cost them, have given definite proof. No longer, without inequity and imprudence, can one refuse to give them, through their vote, an influence in the undertakings which decide peace and war.

"The women of the Allied countries express the wish that President Wilson, in one of his future messages, will proclaim the principle of woman suffrage one of the fundamental rights of the future.

"We have read with emotion, Mr. President, the very profound words which you have spoken in response to the delegation of women from New York. If we recite them here it is because they are the same words that we would ask you to address to all humanity in one of your declarations which resound throughout the world:

"It is a struggle which goes deeper and touches more of the foundation of the organized life of men than any struggle that has ever taken place before, and no sentiment of the questions that lie on the surface can satisfy a situation which requires that the questions which lie underneath and at the foundation should also be settled and settled right. I am free to say that I think the question of women suffrage is one of these questions which lie at the foundation.

"I beg you to accept, Mr. President, the expression of our great appreciation of our sisters and our profound appreciation for the high moral tone of the declarations which you have uttered in their name. It is this which encourages us to ask your aid, which will be a powerful influence for woman suffrage in the entire world."

PROTEST MOVE TO EMPLOY BARMAIDS

"Don't You Dare," Says Margaret Slattery to New York Men Seeking New Legislation

By International News Service.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 14.—Legislation sought by the New York State Retail Liquor Dealers' Association to make possible the employment of barmaids in the State's saloons will be vigorously fought by the Girls' Patriotic League of New York, it was announced here today.

The opening gun in the fight to kill the measure the liquor dealers advocate was fired here by Miss Margaret Slattery, noted speaker and author, when she issued this warning on behalf of the Girls' Patriotic League:

"For the Legislature of New York: Don't you dare enact a law that will put girls behind the bars of the saloons in this State to sell intoxicating drinks to men. Don't you dare.

"Girls can be street car conductors and fill other similar positions if there are not men to take the places, but now with the anti-loafing law in effect I guess there won't be need for that sort of thing. Let us keep our girlhood for the finer things of life. Let us think of what is to come after the war."

Syracuse liquor dealers today announced the legislation would be pushed despite the opposition of the other saloon interests to the problem. Bartenders of draft age must seek more useful occupations and the saloon owners declare it will be impossible to find men to fill the gaps.

The legislation asked includes an amendment to the present law which makes it illegal for women to work after 10 p. m.

"Say Doctor, This Prescription Works Like Magic"—Physician Explains Why Nuxated Iron

Quickly Increases the Strength and Energy of Men and Brings Roses to the Cheeks of Nervous, Rundown Women

Ask the first hundred strong, healthy looking people you meet to what they owe their strength and energy and see how many reply "Nuxated Iron."

Over Three Million People Annually Are Taking Nuxated Iron

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), of New York and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "Thousands of nervous, run-down, ansemic people suffer from iron deficiency, but do not know what to take. There is nothing like organic iron. Nuxated Iron—to quickly enrich the blood and thereby put roses in the cheeks of women and give men increased strength and energy.

Unlike the older forms of iron, Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach, but is readily assimilated, and you can quickly recognize its action by a renewed feeling of buoyant health.

No matter what other iron remedies you have used without success, if you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to take the following test:

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without getting tired, next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks and then test your strength and endurance again and see how much you have gained. To be absolutely sure of getting real organic iron and not some form of the inorganic variety, always ask for Nuxated Iron in its original packages. Nuxated Iron will increase the strength, power and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down people in a very few weeks' time in many instances.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sullivan can be obtained from any good druggist, with or without a physician's prescription, on an absolute guarantee of success by its manufacturers or money refunded. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

ARMY AND NAVY AMERICAN

DEMOCRACY — BOSTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1918. — LIBERTY

DENY RUMOR OF QUARANTINE AT DEVENS

"Nothing to It," Says Major Peak—Stahl Second in Command of "Boston's Own"

By WILLIAM H. FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, June 14.—A rumor that the entire cantonment was to be placed in quarantine for a period of from five days to two weeks was today officially denied by Major George M. Peek, adjutant of the 76th Division.

The report had spread all over the camp and gained circulation throughout New England. The authorities are now attempting to find out how the rumor was started, as it has caused much uneasiness among the officers and men in camp and much trouble to officials at division headquarters.

"I do not know how such a report ever became current," said Major Peek today. "I do know there is nothing to it, however; there has never been any idea of quarantining the camp, and from now on that report is officially denied."

STAHL ARRIVES AT CAMP.

It was strongly intimated at Devens headquarters today that none of the captains in the Depot Brigade would be promoted to the rank of major and assigned to the brigade battalions at present lacking permanent commanders.

Several of these captains are said to have been recommended for majorities, but so far the attitude of the authorities at Washington has been unfavorable and it is now believed that all the senior vacancies in the enlarged brigade will be filled by officers sent here from other army posts and cantonments.

Many lieutenants in the Depot Brigade are in line for promotion to the rank of captains and will be assigned to the various companies of the brigade now commanded by lieutenants.

NATIVE OF ILLINOIS.

Lieutenant-Colonel Henry G. Stahl has arrived in camp and taken up his duties as second in command of "Boston's Own" regiment under Colonel Frank Tompkins.

Lieutenant-Colonel Stahl comes from Illinois, is a regular army man who has risen from the ranks to his present berth. He enlisted in B Company of the Fouth Infantry in December, 1898, and during the following year had held practically every non-commissioned office in the company up to top sergeant.

Lieutenant Colonel Stahl takes the place made vacant by the transfer of camp of Lieutenant Colonel Moore N. Falls, former head of the third officers' training camp.

William H. Biggane of Cambridge holds the disappearing record of the cantonment. He dropped out of sight twice during the first week he was in the army and is now locked up in the cantonment guard house while the army officials are debating what shall be done with him.

Biggane was inducted into the service on June 6, and his preliminary papers had hardly been made out when he left the camp without leave. He was brought back here, however, and given another chance.

He had only been back a short time when he disappeared a second time and was picked up by members of the provost guard in Boston. Biggane is temporarily charged with desertion and will probably be court-martialed.

EDITORIAL

Being the chairman of a school board giving charge of a number of different army schools is not the easiest thing in the world and when those schools are made up mostly of men without any previous military training it is much harder. Lieutenant-Colonel Edward Croft, the headmaster at Camp Devens, however has filled his position in a highly commendable manner and the way the 76th Division is rounding into shape as a fighting unit is largely due to his efforts.

Lieutenant-Colonel Croft has spent years in the army but his lifetime of discipline has failed to sour him. He possesses a bubbling disposition that is the joy of the cantonment. From one end of the week to the other he is one of the busiest men in camp but he puts a smile into his work that is catching to those about him. With all his other qualifications he knows his job and does it, and the 76th Division is fortunate to have him.

SHIP BAY IS VERY POPULAR AT PIER

Many Sailors Are Anxious to Become Members of the Hospital Corps

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, June 14.—The Ship Bay is one of the most popular departments of the ship. It has a long waiting list; not, however, of prospective patients, but of sailors who would like to get into the Hospital Corps, admission to which is considered highly desirable. There are two departments that look after the health of the Navy. One is the Medical Corps, made up of the physicians who are commissioned officers, and the Hospital Corps, composed of enlisted men, who serve as nurses and attendants.

There is no shortage just now of medical officers in the regular establishment of the Navy. A drive is to be made soon, however, for doctors for the Reserve, who will only obligate themselves to serve during the war. The attempt to bring more men into this section of the Reserve is another indication that something big in the way of naval activity is planned for the near future.

Progress is constantly being made toward getting the Naval Overseas Transportation Agency settled in its new quarters on the 45th. Contractors are constantly at work getting things into shape. The clerical quarters have already been supplied with desks, typewriters and supplies, and Paymaster O'Brien has doffed the dungaree that he wore during the busiest days of getting ready and put on his regular uniform, and is ready to welcome the new clerical force when it shall arrive.

Another evidence that the new ships that are being built all along the coast for the transportation of food and munitions across the water will soon begin coming to the ship for their outfitting is found in the transfer of Lieutenant Rogers to the charge of the agency's armed guard. It will be the duty of this guard to keep watch and ward over the ships while they are in harbor.

WOMAN, 63, WINS $10,000 HEART BALM

Sued Man of 75 for Breach of Promise—Jury Out 20 Minutes

Miss Sarah Marsden of Roxbury was given a $10,000 verdict in connection with her $50,000 suit for breach of promise to marry brought against William Todd Meek, head bookkeeper at the Youth's Companion, after the jury had deliberated only twenty minutes. Miss Marsden is sixty-three and the man she claimed to be her former sweetheart is seventy-five. The case was tried before Judge Hall and a jury in the Suffolk Superior Court.

The parties to the litigation knew each other in Leeds, England. Mr. Meek came to this country many years ago. Miss Marsden landed here unmarried a number of years later. For a time she lived at his mother's home until she secured employment.

She testified that Meek promised to marry her. There was considerable testimony about meetings at Meek's property at Atlantic up to 1915.

Meek told the court and jury that he had known Miss Marsden for forty years. He said she never was in his house. That he never made her presents or that he never took her boating. He declared he never made any proposal of marriage or bestowed any affection on her.

WOMAN REVEALS PLOT TO DESTROY RAILWAY BRIDGE

Rochester, N. Y., June 14.—An enemy plot to destroy the new Erie railway bridge across the Genesee River, was revealed to the authorities in an anonymous letter written in a feminine hand. The purpose of the plot was said to be to cripple movements of troop trains and munitions over the road.

The plot was declared to include the wrecking of a number of bridges along the main line out of Buffalo and Erie, Pa., as well as on the Rochester division. All of the bridges are now under strong armed guard.

RABBI WISE SPEAKS AT WORCESTER GRADUATION

Worcester, June 14.—Rabbi Steven S. Wise of New York was the principal speaker at the graduation exercises of the Worcester Academy. The exercises marked the eighty-fourth anniversary of the institution. Dr. Daniel W. Abercrombie, who has retired as principal, was presented a substantial check by the alumni.

A feature of the commencement program was the dedication of a service flag bearing 506 stars, representing graduates of the institution in the service.

Ray Spevack of Malden has been sued for $5,000 by Anna Zaiel, a minor, who sues through her father, Joseph Zaiel, of Worcester. She alleges that on May 5, while on the defendant's property at No. 303 Bryant street, Malden, she was severely injured owing to the defective condition of the railing on a flight of steps.

WOMEN LENDING GREAT AID TO STAMP DRIVE

House-to-House Canvass Proving Huge Success—North Easton "Over the Top"

The feminine drive for one million pledges to buy stamps in Massachusetts before June 28, National War Savings Day, is gaining speed and force with the advance of every twenty-four hours, according to reports of the canvassers.

The house-to-house canvass undertaken by the women is being prosecuted with zeal in each of the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth.

Reports to the headquarters of the June Drive, of which Charles P. Weed is chairman, and Mrs. George T. Rice, head of the Women's War Savings Service, show that the canvass in many sections is well toward completion, and some cities and towns will go beyond their quota even this week.

North Easton, where Mrs. E. E. Kelley is woman chairman, reported that the town had gone over the top with 1,400. Of these 1,016 represented 2,373 War Savings Stamps, including two for the limit of $1,000 maturity value.

BROCKTON FORGING AHEAD.

Brockton is forging ahead at a rate hard to equal. The 500 workers under Mrs. Stephen P. Alden reported almost 12,000 pledges against a quota of 17,000, all secured in two days. Some districts have gone over 100 per cent. of their quota.

Worcester, where Mrs. Henry Gross is woman chairman, reported 11,280 pledges out of a quota of 44,000. The county reported 17,955 pledges to the value of $248,000. Charles L. Allen, general manager of the Norton Company, has become president of the $1,000 Limit Club. Paul M. Morgan, vice-president, and pledges in this organization will go far to swell the quota of Worcester in the sale of stamps.

In New Bedford the effect of the drive for pledges has been immediately reflected in the sales at the postoffice which have jumped from $,500 per day last week to $5,000 per day this week. W. W. Crapo and T. S. Hathaway, chairmen of the committee of 100, are the latest members elected to the $1,000 Limit Club.

Everett reported pledges of 723 signers on the first day.

In Northampton, Chairman McCallum reported that there are 250 solicitors on the committee, and the 5,950 pledges set as quota are felt to be in sight.

PASSES HALFWAY MARK.

In Haverhill, 8,100 pledges out of a quota of 18,000 were secured without approaching factories or business houses.

In East Taunton the Portuguese, at a single rally, took $3,000 worth of stamps.

East Boston, under Mrs. F. L. Pidgeon, will concentrate its drive next week. Sergeant Edward Creed will speak at the high school, Tuesday night, and Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall, the Boston woman chairman, will outline the campaign.

Reports from the West Roxbury campaign are pledges for $60,000 War Savings Stamps made at the rally at Pearce's Field.

In Ashburnham, Mrs. J. T. Wheelan reports 369 pledges out of a quota of 850.

Corbett's Corner

This is the final of a series of articles by Mr. Corbett concerning the career of the late Frank Gotch, who went to his grave the undefeated heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

By JAMES J. CORBETT

Frank Gotch decided upon permanent retirement in mid-Summer of 1912. But early in 1913 George Lurich, a mighty Russian, who had conquered both Hackenschmidt and Zbyszko, came to this country and insisted that Gotch give him a chance at the title.

Gotch did—and the American made the renowned Russian look ... a novice. The match was pulled on April 1, 1913, in Kansas City before a crowd of 12,000, which went into spasms of delight over the way Gotch conquered the ... Lurich ... and ... the world.

As was his ... Gotch ... from the start. Lurich ... rose and ... the first ten minutes of ... But by that time the fierce, merciless attack of the American began to make its impress.

Even though fighting defensively Lurich ... follow the pace set by Gotch and after 18 minutes and 10 seconds of grappling Lurich fell victim to Gotch through a combination arm lock and toe hold.

RUSSIAN PROVED EASY.

The second bout lasted only five minutes and 25 seconds. Gotch simply toyed with the Russian, picking him up and then slamming him to the mat with ease. After one of the flops, Gotch pounced upon Lurich, secured a double nelson—and the show was over.

A few days later Gotch announced:

"I have been wrestling almost constantly for nearly fourteen years. For more than five I have been champion and as such have done all that the public has asked of me. I have met every man who wanted a crack at me—and I have defended my title successfully.

"Now I am through with the game that has brought wealth and fame to me and plan to spend my remaining years on my farm in Iowa."

And Frank Gotch went back to the farm. Once afterward the public ... him to return to activity on the mat became so strong that he decided to attempt a comeback, but while in training he broke a leg—and that caused him to go back to his farm and stay there.

GOTCH A REAL CHAMPION.

Gotch was a champion—a real champion. He ranks as the most marvelous wrestler in the history of the world. Over a sweep of fourteen years he battled the mightiest men that the mat game has ever known—and only four sent him down to defeat.

Two setbacks came to Gotch in his first year, when he was nothing but a novice. Tom Jenkins was the third man to triumph over him—and Jenkins accomplished it three times.

But in the end Gotch took the championship from the Clevelander and ever afterward showed himself the absolute master of Jenkins. The other man who won from Gotch was Fred Beell—and his victory was a fluke.

Through all the years of his life Frank Gotch commanded the respect and the admiration of the sporting world. He was clean in every thre of his being. His character was unassailable.

Though showered with praise such as few men ever have received, he remained modest and unaffected.

MADE MILLION ON MAT.

He made close to $1,000,000 through his athletic prowess—but not one dollar of it was spent in riotous living. The gilded cafes never housed Frank Gotch. Scandal never tainted his name.

His home in Humboldt, Iowa—a town of little more than 1,000 inhabitants always appealed to Frank Gotch as the most wonderful place in the world.

After his mat triumphs, enthusiastic admirers usually wanted Frank to ... with them to some gay place ... celebrate. But Gotch always ... —and always hurried back to the seclusion of his little Iowa town.

Frank Gotch was a phenomenal wrestler—and a remarkable man. He stood always for what was clean, and it is to the everlasting regret of America that death came to him so early, thus removing from this earth a model for every living American.

Two Cash Discounts Go Into Your Pocket

The man who comes to this Live Store to buy his clothes makes two savings that no other men's store in Boston can offer. He saves what we save by paying spot cash for all our merchandise, and he saves what we save through having no charge accounts.

Most stores take their own time about paying for their goods. Therefore the tailoring houses we do business with are only too glad to give us liberal discounts because of our large orders and cash payments. We pass those discounts along to our customers.

Most stores also have (and even solicit) charge accounts. We have none and so do not have to add anything to our prices to cover the high expenses and inevitable losses of doing that kind of business. That's the other cash discount we pass along to our customers.

We practise many other economies, all of which are reflected in our well-known greater value-giving, but the direct cash savings we mention above are distinctive, for this is the only store in the city, dealing exclusively in high-grade merchandise, that is conducted on a strictly cash basis.

And this is also the only store that sells

TECH TENNIS PLAYERS PUT OUT IN TOURNEY

Hartford, Ct., June 14.—The elimination of W. L. Wei and H. Brookman, M. I. T. pair, in both singles and doubles, furnished the surprise in the play of the annual New England championship tennis tournament.

Wei went down before A. H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield in the third round in straight sets, while Brookman met defeat in the same round at the hands of G. W. Pike, another Springfield player.

The best match was the semi-final in the championship doubles between Wei and Brookman, New England intercollegiate champions, and Bundy and Willey, Yale entrants. The Blue pair was victorious in a hard-fought three-set match, after losing the initial set.

BRAVES OUT FOR 3RD PLACE

Victory for Local and Defeat for Reds Means New Berth for Stallings' Clan

By NICK FLATLEY.

Third place lies within reach of the flying Boston Braves today. Provided they collected the last quarrel with the Pirates and the Reds were beaten again, said Reds and our own ambitious heroes would be fifty-fifty back of the pace-making Cubs and Giants.

If the team keeps plugging along as it has been since the Cubs departed, third will only be a matter of time anyhow, but getting there quickly will be a fine spur to the rampant spirit of the outfit.

The team, despite a dolorous hitting slump, has collected four of the last five games. Perfect pitching has been the answer. In five games the hostiles have scored four runs, and three of these came in the first Pirate encounter.

There's no reason in the world to run on that the clinging will deteriorate while there's every reason to [illegible] hitters will get busy once again.

CARDINALS HERE NEXT.

Unless there's an unexpected slip-up somewhere, the tribe is headed for a real shot at the top of the column.

The Cardinals follow the Pirates here for four games, but winning the Corsair finale did not boom up as any measure, whatever that means.

Cooper, as good a hurlman as there is these times, was due to try to make the series an even split for the siesta. Hazen, who has recovered all his stuff, was first in the Stallings selections, with Upham in the direct offing.

In the regular order of things, it would be Rudolph's turn, but Stallings, with things breaking rightly for him, is anxious to get back to old habits, and have the Little Master to start all new series with.

Everything Goes, Says Griffith, Who Kicks at Pitching Ruses

Chicago, June 14.—Clark Griffith, Washington manager, believes in fighting fire with fire.

"Until the umpires stop the White Sox pitchers from using the shine ball," says Griff, "my pitchers will use it—even Walter Johnson, who really doesn't need it.

"I mean to compel action by Ban Johnson against this illegal delivery, but he'll have to stop every pitcher, not all but the Chicago bunch."

Griff says his players are to smear and shine the ball with all sorts of stuff—paraffin, licorice, oil of tar, talcum, and just plain every day mud.

Merkle and Mann Are Cub Sensations in Mitchell's Drive

Fred Merkle keeps up his surprising stickwork for the Cubs. His notch to date is .332, and the way he is going it bids fair swelling to .400.

Be it known that Merkle hit .364 for Chicago last year, which makes his present pudgy mark all the more hard to figure as being on the up-and-up.

Leslie Mann, another Cub, ditto another sensation, is the runner-up. His average is .341. Last season the ex-Cub batted .273, and even then was figured as being over his head.

Red Smith and Al Wickland of the Braves follow the two Cubs. They are racing points apart, with Hollocher, another Cub surprise, fifth, a single notch behind Wickland.

The two Georges, Burns and Sisler, are racing one-two in the American League table. Then comes Tillie Walker, followed by Frank Baker, with Harry Hooper a single point to the rear of the slugging Yankee. The two leading lists.

FULLERTON'S COLUMN

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

There is something upside down in the dope. Just look at the official averages: Detroit, the strongest hitting team in the American League last in team batting, the Cards, with their supposed slugging power, last in the National; the Cubs, figured to be weak at bat, leading in team hitting; the Browns at the top in the American League, when, during the Winter, the scribes declared Jones was liable to have another "Hitless-Wonder" club.

Look at the Cubs: Merkle practically at the head of the league; Mann Hollocher, Vaughn and Hendryx up among the .300 batters.

There is something wrong somewhere, meaning that there will be more upsets later when the teams steady down to work, if they ever do.

Then there are those surprising Yankees, who fought to the top of the American League and then went over it though only for a day. Here is the lowest club in the league, covering all its lack of speed by long and steady wallops, while Detroit's greatest batters are falling down almost every time they need a hit in the pinch.

The season was figured to be one of surprises and upsets, but the surprises and upsets are coming from the wrong direction entirely.

LEARNING REAL AGES.

The war has done one thing for baseball it has made a lot of players spring the old family Bible and admit that they have been cheating a bit on their ages.

Some of the age revelations are a big surprise, but the biggest one to me was Bob Harmon. The other day I mentioned Bob and referred to him as old.

I had known him ever since he perched down at Shreveport in 1901, and watched him for several years when he didn't have a blade of hair on his head, so imagined he had served the usual apprenticeship in the minors and then come along at a ripe old age.

"Where do you get that old stuff?" he inquired. "I'm in the draft."

"If you're in the draft, Bobby Wallace and I will be grabbed on the new twenty-one-year old limit."

Then Bob produced his card, showing that he was twenty-nine years old.

"I never was in the minors except two months," he said. "I went to Shreveport in March and came into the big leagues late in May.

"The first game of professional ball I ever saw in my life, I pitched, and the first major league game I ever saw in my life I pitched."

Which is considerable record.

WHEN PLANK STARTED.

Compare that with Eddie Plank, who was older when he started to pitch baseball than Harmon is now.

Plank, by the way, has one crooked finger and there is a yarn connected with that finger. Eddie had a younger brother down at Gettysburg, who played a little baseball, but Eddie was busy on the farm, which is at the edge of the battlefield, and he was too busy pitching hay to think of baseball; in fact, he says that up to that time he never even had attempted to catch a baseball.

One day he was riding on top of a wagon loaded with hay and his brother was throwing a ball around on the ground. He made a motion as if to throw and called to Eddie to catch the ball. Then he threw. Eddie tried for it, and broke a finger.

That discouraged him for another year. Then he tried it, discovered that he could throw and accommenced playing. In all the years that he pitched after that he never injured a finger seriously.

Fielder Jones in Row With Ball and Quits His St. Louis Post

St. Louis, June 14. — Fielder Jones has retired as leader of the Pilgrims.

He declared in a statement to President Phil Ball and Otto Stifel, a leading stockholder, that he was tired of baseball and would return to his lumber interests at Portland, Ore.

A committee of players with George Sisler as spokesman, headed upon Business Manager Quinn and requested that Jones be allowed to remain at the head of the club. Nothing came of their manifesto.

Jones' resignation came as a complete surprise. It is said that after Wednesday's game, which the Senators scored six runs and won a victory over St. Louis in the ninth inning, a conference was held in the Browns' office. President Ball is reported to have found fault with the way Jones handled the team in the game.

Jones learned the rudiments of baseball around his old home, Shippenhouse, Pa., his original position being a shortstop. His first professional engagement was in the Oregon State League in 1897. In 1899 Jones shifted into the outfield, playing that year with Binghamton (New York State League) and Springfield, Mass.

Brooklyn secured his services in 1896. He was the star of the baseball outfield until the war between American and National leagues broke out in 1901. Then Jones became a member of Comiskey's White Sox, winning the world's championship with the club in 1906.

He resigned in Chicago in 1908 and was out of baseball until 1914, when he became manager of the St. Louis Feds.

ONLY ONCE HAS SCOTT PERRY BEEN LACED

New Brave's American League Record Is 6-10—Gave Eight Runs in "Bad" Game

By H. W. LANIGAN.

The pennant bee is buzzing out at the Home of Big Things. That's but natural, so much good ball have the Braves been playing since Herzog and Konetchy found themselves; Art Wilson hit it up in high, and Fillingim and Hearn proved they are pitchers of good merit.

Then, Richard Rudolph is himself again, and Manager Stallings is confident that Tom Hughes, one of the steadiest right-handers in the game when in trim, will be working regularly within a week's time.

The Miracle Man also thinks he has corraled another Fillingim in Bill Upham, a spitball pitcher, same as Jimmy Lavender, an Athletes who stands 6 feet 4 inches tall.

As expected the National Commission has awarded Scott Perry to the Braves. He's another damp-ball workman; an out-and-out topliner, picked on his form with the Athletics all season.

Perry has made sixteen appearances on the pitching peak for Connie Mack and was bracketed six times. He pitched to 470 American League batsmen; allowed but 38 runs in his sixteen full games and the several others he figured in to windups and was hit safely 109 times. His opponents' batting average was .232.

Appended is a complete record of Perry's work with the clan of Mack:

May 19—Boston, 5 to 3, Retrieved Gregg to relieve opposing pitcher, Beaty.

May 31—Detroit, 5 to 2, allowing 8 hits, giving out 2 and giving 1 pass. Opposing pitcher, Boland.

DEFEATS (10).

RED SOX OPEN SERIES WITH ST. LOUIS

Barrows Brigade Hopeful of Keeping Up Good Work Against Jonesless Browns

St. Louis, June 14. The Red Sox, feeling mighty "classy" over making it three out of four over the White Sox in Chicago, are in St. Louis for four battles with the Jonesless Browns.

The flying league leaders bring their Western tour to a close with next Monday's matinee at Sportsman's Park. They go direct home, opening a brief stand on their home lawn next Wednesday, with the Athletics as their foe.

Dutch Leonard officiated in the final fray in Chicago, and toweled his comrades to a tidy 6-0 triumph. He gave five hits, three being doubtful ones.

It is expected that the Red Sox will have little trouble in duplicating here. Fielder Jones is quit the Browns, having had a disagreement with Owner Phil Ball.

Yesterday's victory over Chicago came as a result of one short hitting of Cicotte. The supposed shine baller had nothing to deceive, being nicked for nine hits in seven portions. They netted six runs.

These rivals have participated in eight combats. Six have been won by Boston.

THE GROWING POPULARITY OF SUITS-WITHOUT-A-LINING FOR SUMMER WEAR

During the hot days of July and August, and the latter days of June, a lined suit becomes altogether too uncomfortable for business and sport wear, so the skeleton lined suit at this time takes its place in the front rank.

Although these suits have no lining, they are so skillfully tailored in our own shops, that they keep their shape and have the appearance of a full lined garment; seams are piped with satin or alpaca. Two or three piece suits made in serges and fancy worsteds.

Prices $25. to $60.

Quarter, half and full lined suits for men who prefer them.

PLENTY OF MEN FOR FARM WORK

Farmers Needing Help Urged to Apply to U. S. Employment Bureau

By THOMAS F. PHELAN,
United States Farm Labor Agent.

Farmers throughout the State and in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont who want to employ milkers, tractor men, weeders and help in the general work are urged to get in touch with the United States Employment Service, No. 53 Canal street, Boston, and make known their wants in the labor market.

Men are enrolling so fast for this line of work at the American Farm Labor office at that address that it is necessary to appeal to the farmers to take advantage of the willingness of these men to work on their farm before a demand is made for their services elsewhere.

Officials of the government's employment service wish to impress upon the farmers the necessity of making known what wages they will pay, the number of hours per day they expect their men to work and whether other details may be necessary. This information is absolutely essential, as the scarcity of help on farm work will become more apparent as the harvesting season approaches.

Much criticism is being directed to the laxity of farmers in this respect at the three-day "War Labor Conference" now being held in Washington, D. C., and a routine of action is being formulated there to bring the matter forcibly to the attention of farm owners in all parts of the country. Cooperation of farmers with the United States Employment service is urgently needed.

BEWARE OF BOGUS SOLICITORS.

Farmers in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are warned to beware of bogus solicitors for help who may say they represent the Government. All Government agents have credentials to show that they are authorized to hire help, and farmers are urged to report all bogus solicitors to this office. If a man or woman calls at a farm, purporting to represent a United States employment office or a newspaper, make him or her show their credentials. Forewarned is forearmed. Do this and you will avoid a great deal of trouble.

The Canal street office of this paper is in possession of the latest available information, especially the condition of crops in all parts of the wheat belt in the southwestern States and where men are or are not needed. Also the localities where young men from high schools and colleges will be well received.

NO FREE FARE.

Boys who are not old enough to be able to do a man's work are not wanted for work in the harvest. By applying at the United States Employment Service anyone desiring to arrange for work will be furnished the name of a representative with whom he may correspond.

So far as is known to this office, there is no reduced or free fare from any point to the harvest fields.

Rural telephone companies that have been asked by Secretary of Labor Wilson to co-operate with the United States Employment Service in ascertaining the labor needs of Western farmers are located in Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

This announcement is made to prevent confusion in the minds of any district superintendents or State directors of the Employment Service who may think that companies with, in their districts or States have been asked to help. While this co-operation plan later will be extended to other States, for the present it will be confined to the four States mentioned above.

GUARD NEW ERIE BRIDGE FROM PLOT BY SPIES

Rochester, N. Y., June 14.—Acting upon an alarm to the effect that spies had plotted the destruction of the new Erie steel bridge across the Genesee River, a dozen Erie special officers watched the four span structure all night. A telegram from an Erie official at Binghamton told of the receipt of a letter written in feminine hand and unsigned, telling of a gang of plotters that had agreed to blow up the Erie bridge in this city about 1 o'clock Thursday morning.

OWNERS SHOULD LEARN MORE ABOUT AUTO

Time Coming When Every Man Must Know How to Repair His Car

By C. F. DONNOCKER

This is the time when every automobile owner must take it upon himself to know more about the machine he drives, and, there is no one better qualified to teach him than the dealer who sold him the car. In discussing this point recently, A. J. Shorey, manager of the New England Velie Company, says:

"It is coming to the point where every car owner has to know something about car repair or be ashamed of himself. Even the men who are volunteering for war work of the Y. M. C. A. at home and abroad. The call is for men between thirty-five and forty. The War Personnel Board specifies bank presidents, department store managers, railroad officials, business executives, accountants, outstanding educators, chief directors, motion picture experts, practical builders and engineers accustomed to handle big things in a big way.

"Many car owners who have volunteered for Y. M. C. A. service because have come to me about this matter and asked for help. I have bothered much about repairs heretofore. They have been content to let the presidents, department store managers and business executives as a rule know how to repair cars and take pride in running their own—but they have been content to gain a pale greasy overalls for that thrilling experience, flat on their backs, of tapping the mysteries of a refractory car from below.

"It is wonderful what this war is doing to teach us to do things with our own hands. Efficiency is the watchword, but it will have a new meaning for us before peace comes. In line with the getting down to brass every driver of an automobile should practice those things which will render his car most efficient.

"The considerate of your tires; be sure your carburetor is in economical adjustment; be careful and sane in your application of gasoline; treat your car to the limits of its possibilities, but do so intelligently. There is no product going as much to help win the war as the motor vehicle. Enlist your car in the service. Practice efficiency."

20,000 BLOOMS ON EXHIBIT IN THE FLOWER SHOW

The annual peony, rose and strawberry exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, one of the most colorful shows of the year, will open in Horticultural Hall tomorrow at noon and will continue through Saturday afternoon and evening.

The society will donate all the proceeds of the show to the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross. This will be the second show given for the Red Cross this year by the Horticultural Society.

More than 20,000 blooms will be displayed, it is expected, including besides peonies and roses, many of the other flowers of the season, and there will also be exhibits of berries, fruits and vegetables. The peonies will be shown in the Parker hall and the roses in the lecture halls.

ARRESTED FOR GIVING LIQUOR TO SOLDIER

Fitchburg, June 14.—After a soldier had begged for liquor, Edward W. Barton, fifty, living on Pritchard street, said he granted the appeal and gave the khaki-clad youth a "nip" from a bottle which he obtained from his medicine chest. Mr. Barton and the soldier, Elmer Salter, twenty-three, were arrested by military police. Barton on a charge of furnishing liquor to a soldier and the Devens man on a charge of having liquor in his possession.

Your Patriotic Duty:

Let the Flag Float Everywhere Today

It Is More Than Ever the Emblem of Liberty, Equality and Humanity.

This is Flag Day.

Let every man who has a home or a building raise the national emblem.

Let every one wear it.

Let the patriotism of the Nation be in evidence everywhere.

The beautiful banner of the United States has never met defeat, and never shall meet defeat.

For far more than a hundred years it has been the symbol of freedom and civilization.

It stands for those things more than ever today.

We are engaged in a great war to resist the German threat of world domination. Side by side with the soldiers of our gallant allies our men are fighting under the flag.

Let it float over the whole Nation today as it floats over them, a symbol of American courage and of American independence and of American determination to throw back the cruel, brutal power that would place the whole world under its yoke.

Let the flag be seen everywhere, and in the celebration of the day let us bear in mind the debt we owe to the brave men who are fighting with our allies, and resolve that we, too, will make any sacrifice to support them and inspire them in the fight.

Government Should Provide Tractors for Farmers

And Automobile Trucks and Tractors for Hauling in the Rush Season

Copyrighted, 1918, by the Star Company

There are in the United States five hundred thousand farmers wishing that they had a tractor for farm work. Each of these farmers could increase food production if it were possible for him to obtain the services of a tractor when needed.

The tractor is expensive, it requires technical care.

If the farmer buys it for his own use it is idle the greater part of the time—rusting, deteriorating, losing interest on the investment.

Governments of States and the Government of the United States should purchase tractors, as many as the farmers need, put them where the farmers can get the use of them, with competent operators—first come, first served—and at the lowest price that would pay the Government rate of interest and a sinking fund for renewals.

Men of middle age can run tractors and take good care of them. The Government could easily find the middle-aged men to undertake this work.

State governments purchase stallions to improve the breed of horses, and allow farmers the use of these selected animals, at a moderate charge.

The horse is becoming a thing of the past, the tractor is the thing of the day.

Governments, National and State, should see that no acre of ground goes uncultivated, no farmer is cut down in his possibilities, for lack of tractors and other machinery.

In addition to the use of tractors, the Government should supply for hauling in the rush season automobiles and wagons to and from the farm, between farm and railroad stations and markets.

In many cases the tractor itself could be used for hauling, as well as for pulling the plow and harrow and running machinery on the farm.

The ordinary tractor wheel could be covered in such a way as to pull heavy loads along the roads without injuring the roads.

One ordinary tractor could pull a dozen farm wagons, saving the work of a dozen teams and a dozen drivers.

The constant demand made upon the farmer is "increase your output."

The farmer has a right to say to the Government of his nation, "GO-OPERATE WITH ME, put to work the tractors already manufactured that are lying idle. Give me a chance to hire and pay a fair price for what I need when I need it and I will show you what I can produce."

President Wilson and Mr. Houston, his Secretary of Agriculture, are earnestly interested in the farmer's welfare, willing to do everything possible to facilitate the one great important work of this country—feeding Europe and ourselves.

Members of Congress representing farming districts should take up with the Government this important matter of supplying machinery to the farmers that they themselves are unable to buy, or individually cannot use to advantage all the year around.

Mr. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, deserves the thanks of the farmers and of the country for his energy in securing priority for raw materials used in making farm implements and also priority of transportation.

We have been informed that the State Council of Defence of Maryland last Winter purchased four tractors to be used in preparing land for wheat—two of the tractors in Kent County, one each in Cecil and Harford counties.

That is an excellent example and a good beginning. It should be multiplied by a hundred thousand.

The tractors, State owned, should be used first for the farmers, plowing, cultivating their fields.

Second, for the farmers, hauling to and from the station—leaving the farmer his teams and his men always at work on the farm.

Third, for farmers, supplying power for silos, threshing machines, etc.

Flag Days That Make Democracy Safe

FLOWERS TO BRIGHTEN A HARD LIFE

By Winifred Black

THERE she was in the hall when I went out of my hotel room that morning—the old, old woman with the snow-white hair, very old and very wrinkled, and very bent. And when she stood up and lifted her heavy pail and staggered across the hall she limped, and I saw that she was almost a cripple.

I spoke to her this morning about the weather and she looked up in amazement. She couldn't believe any one was addressing her, but afterward she answered, and her voice was sweet and full and rich, and I wondered where the man is who loved to hear that voice once when the old, old woman was young and pretty and sweet.

Her eyes are very blue and there is something childlike and trusting in them, and she smiles very easily, too—I have noticed that—especially when there's a child anywhere around. There is a poor little dressed-up, artificial child in the room across the hall, always leaning on the window-sill and looking wistfully down at the people in the street below.

I saw her standing looking at the scrubwoman, and the scrubwoman smiled up at her and nodded, but the child doll never even saw the smile. She doesn't know that people who scrub floors know how to smile, and if they do she isn't interested to know what it is that pleases them. They are so entirely out of her world she doesn't even realize that they have any separate existence of their own, I suppose.

I will tell you what I am going to do. I'm going to buy a little bunch of Spring wildflowers from the boy on the corner, and I'm going to take them with me to the hotel and find the old, old woman who scrubs the floors in the hall.

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

There Is No Antagonism Between Science and the Bible, and the Real Man of Science Does Not Seek Out Errors and Flaws in It, Because He Knows That They Do Not Affect Its Purpose

By Garrett P. Serviss

ONE reader asks whether it is not the duty of science to investigate and expose for the good of mankind the errors taught in the Bible.

I do not think that it is the duty of science to meddle with the Bible. The leaders of science have never gone out of their way to attack the Bible, and when they have criticised its statements concerning things that have been the subjects of scientific investigation they have done so only because those statements were made the basis of efforts to discredit science and to oppose its teachings. There ought to be no thought of antagonism between science and the Bible. They do not stand on the same ground. Science is founded on observations verifiable by human senses and human reason; the Bible derives its authority with most of its readers from the belief that its foundations are superhuman.

The Real Bible

The Bible is mainly historical, the autobiography of an intensely introspective and richly imaginative people, which felt God in its heart and saw Him personally leading it against its enemies, threatening it for its misconduct, punishing it for its sins and always loving it as a father loves a wilful child.

It is because of that conception that the Bible stands unequalled among books as a guide for human conduct, and that science would be doing wrong by seeking to destroy it merely for its errors of statement about things that have no essential bearing upon the purpose for which it was written. Whoever wishes to test the real value of the Bible will not trouble himself about the inconsistency between the facts of science and the stories of Jonah, of the falling walls of Jericho, of Noah and his ark, of Joshua and the obedient sun and moon, of Adam and the naming of the animals, of the walls of water between which the children of Israel marched dryshod across the Red Sea, although in all these things, and hundreds like them, it is easy to see the allegorical intent of the writers; but he will consider the effect upon himself of the Psalms of David (the mightiest tonic for tired and discouraged souls that language contains), and of the parables, sermons and precepts of Jesus, which history proves have transformed the world and placed humanity on a higher plane.

The real man of science does not seek for scientific flaws in the Bible. On the contrary, he is often filled with surprise and gratification to find how wonderfully well, in many cases, the Bible writers, and those from whom they drew, divined, in a broad way, underlying truths which he and his coworkers have taken generations to systematically develop. The nebulous beginning of the solar system certainly seems to be plainly suggested in Genesis, although the details as there described quickly go wrong.

Who Would Dare?

Even the following statement, which narrow minds often take only as a subject for ridicule; "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul," may be regarded as simply a vivid imaginative picture in which is summed up in a sentence the long story of organic evolution, whose whole course is again compressed into the words: "Dust thou art and unto dust thou shalt return."

The substance of science is there, for the latest note of biology goes no farther, except in technical details. The secret key of life is no more in the hands of science today than it was in those of the men who wrote Genesis.

They Shall Not Win

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

WORD comes from "Over There" that our contributor, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, has appeared in a new role. After refusing every inducement offered her by managers in America to speak or recite in public, Mrs. Wilcox is now doing her bit by giving talks and telling stories to the soldiers in the entertainment huts of the Y. M. C. A. And with her appears her friend and companion, Mrs. May Randall of New York, who recites Mrs. Wilcox's poems charmingly.

While both ladies are entirely new in this field, their informal and unique entertainments are proving a decided success among the soldiers, and they are greeted everywhere with an ovation.

Curiously enough, the humorous element is largely prominent in the talks of the "Poet of Passion," and she keeps the soldiers in good spirits thereby. And when she does become serious her words have the greater effect.

The new entertainers will soon leave France for England, and Mrs. Wilcox expects to return to America in late August.

WHATEVER the strength of our foes is now,
Whatever it may have been,
This is our slogan, and this our vow—
They shall not win, they shall not win.

Though out of the darkness they call the aid
Of the evil forces of Sin,
We utter our slogan unafraid—
They shall not win, they shall not win.

We know we are right, and know they are wrong.
So to God above and within
We make our vow and we sing our song,
They shall not win, they shall not win.

It rises over the shriek of shell,
And over the cannons' din:
Our slogan shall scatter the hosts of hell,
They shall not win, they shall not win.

SEE "MORAL SUICIDE" IF YOU GET A CHANCE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

HOW easily we slip from one world to another I had occasion to realize the other day.

I was late for an appointment to see the new screen drama, "Moral Suicide," in New York. The taxi had to dump me out on the car tracks and I was forced to make my way on the sidewalk.

Then I entered the building. The elevator whisked me up. The door of the projection room closed behind me. Darkness! Silence! Then the world of dreams, of the imagination, made visible by the magic of photography.

One is not merely a spectator at a play like "Moral Suicide"; one becomes absorbed in it, a part of it. This is true of all sincere dramas which deal fearlessly with life and reality.

Ivan Abramson, the author of this unusual photo-play, is one of the few playwrights who understand the art of translating abstract ideas into the terms of drama. It is this gift of his which makes "Moral Suicide" a powerful and thrilling play and holds his audiences breathless until the final scene.

"Moral Suicide." The phrase is one of the most sinister in the English language. Suicide means self-destruction; but "moral suicide" means the destruction of the only thing which differentiates man from the "beasts that perish." It is the murder of the conscience, the higher self, by the lower and baser self.

John Mason was, of course, the inevitable choice for the character of Richard Covington, the elderly man of affairs, satisfied with his business success, happy in his friendships and devoted to his two motherless children, a boy and a girl.

The girl, Beatrice, is charmingly and sympathetically portrayed by Anne Luther,
